

24 Why is the genetic code described as universal?

- A Each codon is made up of a sequence of three bases.
- B More than one codon can represent one amino acid.
- C Mutations can change the genetic code in all organisms.
- D The genetic code is the same in all organisms.