

32 What describes the function of the atrioventricular node of the heart?

- A It causes the muscles of the atria to contract.
- B It delays the transmission of a wave of electrical activity from the sinoatrial node.
- C It initiates a new wave of electrical activity in the ventricles.
- D It provides a non-conducting barrier between the atria and the ventricles.