

(a) Mevinolin is an enzyme inhibitor that can be prescribed as a drug to reduce the concentration of cholesterol in blood plasma.

Mevinolin acts as a competitive inhibitor of the enzyme HMG CoA reductase. This enzyme catalyses one of the first steps in the synthesis of cholesterol, as shown in Fig. 6.1.

Explain how mevinolin inhibits the enzyme HMG CoA reductase.

[3]

.....[2]

[Total: 5]