

- (a) Olfactory receptor cells are the sensory receptors in the nasal cavity that respond to chemicals in the air. They function in a similar way to the chemoreceptor cells in the taste buds of the tongue.

[5]

- Screening people for lung cancer is important for early detection and treatment.

..... [2]

[Total: 7]